

Mechanical to Electrical Training – The UKs Leading M to E Training Course – Offers Real Return on Investment

With both theoretical and practical modules MCP Consulting Group's, M to E, accredited conversion programme (City & Guilds) is aimed at technicians who have no previous electrical background to enable them to multi-skill and work on specific electrical tasks, competently and safely. This progressive, 4-part programme includes both on- and off-site training and focuses on delegates using the knowledge gained and applying it in fault-finding activities. It also revises key safety and legislative components of the core course.

Courses familiarise delegates with their own site electrical safety rules and practices and the equipment on which they are going to be working.
