RRC/BSS Partnership Goes from Strength to Strength

RRC's partnership with Birmingham based safety and environmental training provider British Safety Services (BSS) started in April this year and is proving hugely successful for both RRC & BSS's customers

After many years of informal collaboration RRC & BSS are both now working together under the same roof in Birmingham!

RRC are now sharing BSS's Birmingham based training and administration facilities and are looking after the day to day running of BSS's UK operations.

RRC & BSS customers are already seeing the benefits from how they can access the full suite of RRC and BSS courses from one single contact.

For RRC customers this includes a range of HSE passport and construction safety training courses an area BSS has specialised in for many years.

This autumn has seen RRC's NEBOSH Certificate, Diploma & IOSH classroom courses move from a hotel style venue to the BSS training centre where our team will be able to provide that additional level of service so much appreciated by our London Customers.

Gary Fallaize, RRC's MD quoted "Having worked closely with BSS for many years on various projects this collaboration was the logical next step and I am delighted it is proving so popular with our customers".
